

MARCELLE WILLOCK, M.D., M.B.A.

Term: 2007

Marcelle M. Willock, M.D., M.B.A. recently joined Charles R. Drew University of Medicine and Science on May 1, 2002 as the Dean of the College of Medicine. Prior to coming to Drew, she was the Assistant Provost for Community Affairs at Boston University School of Medicine.

A graduate of Howard University, Dr. Willock did her residency in anesthesiology at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York City, and was on the faculty at both New York and Columbia University. One of the first physicians to recognize the value of formal study in education and business, in the 1980s she obtained both a Masters degree in Higher Education from Teachers College, Columbia University and an MBA, from Boston University. In 1982 she became Chair of the Department of Anesthesiology at Boston University School of Medicine, serving in that capacity for 16 years, where she revitalized the department and introduced innovative clinical and educational programs at the medical school and hospitals.

Dr. Willock has been well recognized for her service to the professional and local communities and was elected President of the Society of Academic Anesthesiology Chairs, President of the Massachusetts Society of Anesthesiologists, and Assistant Secretary of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, in addition to holding numerous positions in other medical societies and serving on the Board of Directors of several institutions.
